Revision of By-Laws May Come Up at Next Meeting Farm Bureau

Plan Serum Co-op and Farm Youth Organization For County

The Lake County Farm Bureau may be asked to vote on revised by-laws when it holds its annual meeting at Warren Township High School, Gurnee, Saturday evening, Feb. 12.

Members of the executive committee will meet this evening at the Farm Bureau headquarters in Grayslake to study the by-laws to see what changes are necessary, if any. The by-laws were last revised in 1937 and the organization has developed new interests since then.

Members of the executive committee are Stanley Rouse, president; Raymond Flood, secretary; E. E. Elsbury, vice president; Howard Bonner, and Richard Faulkner.

Entertainment at the annual meeting will be a motion picture in color entitled "Much Depends," a historical sketch of the growth of the Farm Bureau in Illinois.

Committees have been named and a study is being made as to whether a cooperative organization shall be formed in Lake County in the purchase of serum for treatment of farm animals. Farmers would be taught how to inject the serum in the animals. Through this method costs would be reduced. Many counties already have this organization.

Another movement on the part of the bureau is to organize a Rural Youth Organization.

Antioch Undefeated Beats Dundee 61-44; Plays Palatine Next

Richmond Game Cancelled Last Night Because Of Weather

The basketball game scheduled for last night between the Sequoits and Richmond High school was called off on account of the weather, giving the local team a breather until January 7, when they will meet Palatine on the Palatine floor. The Sequoits remain undefeated.

Dundee was the last victim of the Antioch team. In a non-conference game here Dec. 22 the locals beat the Dundee five to the tune of 61 to 44. Accurate passing and deadly shooting on the part of the Sequoits discouraged the Cardinals who held on to 12 to 11 score favoring Antioch at the end of the first quarter.

Three quick baskets by Floyd at the outset of the second quarter placed the Sequoits in a lead with the margin increasing as the game wore on. The score at the half was 31 to 23 and at the third quarter 49-33.

Dundee had not been beaten since losing its season's opener to Palatine and with Jack Dobler, pivot ace, as its main threat was considered a tough opponent. Dobler scored 19 points.

For Antioch Mike Haviland was high scorer with 25 points. He led the attack in the second half and had a total of 8 baskets. Ben Floyd was dangerous around the boards and besides doing some excellent passing, contributed 22 points to the total score.

Jack Palmer, Fred Clarke and Chuck Davis executed some excellent teamwork and aided materially in the victory.

First Snow Storm of Season Clogs Roads Wednesday Afternoon

The first major snow storm of the winter season clamped down on Antioch Wednesday afternoon and evening when more than six inches of snow fell between the hours of two p. m. and ten p. m.

Roads in the county were made very dangerous by the snow, most of which was icy sleet at the outset, changing to heavier, wet snow late in the afternoon. A twenty-five mile per hour wind caused considerable drifting on the roads, and some of the main highways were impassable.

Good work by highway crews who were out early with snow plows kept almost all roads in the vicinity open, and today reports are that all township roads are open. Some subdivision roads are still not plowed sufficiently to allow cars to pass.

Most social and other events scheduled for Wednesday evening were cancelled, among them the Antioch Sequoit-Richmond High school basketball game.

Village Board Votes To Sell Water to Wis. Knollwood Residents

Water Would Be Metered at State Line to New Corporation

The village board, meeting in a special session Wednesday night of last week approved a plan of contracting to sell water to Knollwood Subdivision residents on the Wisconsin side of the state line.

A dissenting vote was cast by Trustee Art Hawkins who says he does not favor selling water outside the state, fearing that the demand around Cross Lake will increase.

Under the present plan, the Wisconsin residents will form a corporation and buy the water which will be metered to them four feet within the village limits at the state line. The corporation in turn will sell the water to the customers, collect for it, and pay for the water as metered.

The village would have no control over the water after it leaves the meter.

The village has yet to agree on exact terms of the contract.

Mayor James McMillen says that the number of water users on the Wisconsin side of the subdivision probably will never be more than 30 at the most and the amount of water purchased will not be great.

In view of the large quantity of water now available, there is no danger of shortage even though the village expands westward.

The village will have to install a bigger main as a loop to the north side of town, but additional water users will help pay for it.

There was a rumor afloat yesterday that there would be a protest over the action of the board at the next regular meeting, but it may merely be a request that the village demand a good price for the water it sells across the state line.

Motor Club Head Urges Motorists to Heed Traffic Rules

Eighteen persons will die in traffic accidents on Illinois streets and highways over the New Year week-end.

This grim prediction was made today by Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor Club, who estimated that nine of the deaths will occur in Cook county.

Hayes based his prediction on accident records of past holidays, brought up-to-date by figures of gasoline consumption and auto registrations in Illinois.

In an appeal for safety, Hayes urges motorists and pedestrians to heed traffic regulations during the holiday period. He warned that the toll might be higher if mild temperatures and dry weather prevail over the week-end. Good weather brings out more motorists and also tempts them to travel faster and cover greater distances, Hayes added.

To avoid traffic accidents during the two-day holiday, and start the New Year healthy and happy, Hayes offered motorists several safety suggestions:

1. Drive at moderate speeds and be alert for traffic signs and signals.
2. Plan your trip to allow sufficient time for bad weather and crowded roads.
3. Check lights, windshield wipers, tires and brakes before starting out.
4. Keep an extra distance between you and the car ahead, especially on wet or icy pavements.
5. Allow a big margin of safety when passing, but never pass on curves or bridges.
6. Don't overindulge in food or drink, for fatigue lessens your control of the car.
7. Carry a shovel and ashes or cinders in car trunk.
8. Keep at least one window open to avoid carbon monoxide poisoning.

Free Enterprise at Work

What does private enterprise in business mean? It means industries taxed to the limit from which all the people benefit.

When government goes into business it exempts its operations from taxation, uses tax funds to finance its projects, and serves privileged groups of customers, free from the restrictions of state regulation, taxes and rules applying to all other business.

Taxpaying time is here again and some figures released by the Milwaukee Road give an idea of what the railroad industry is doing toward supporting every state in the Union.

The 24 Montana counties in which the road operates will receive $1,278,177.48, double its tax bill of 10 years ago. Mineral county with a 1950 census population of 2081, gets the largest payment, $123,565.94. The competing Northern Pacific Railway pays $96,000 in taxes to that county. The two tax payments figure more than $500 for each average-size family in Mineral county.

The benefits of the American free enterprise system—free men working for themselves—as contrasted with liberty-destroying government monopolies, are cause for every individual in the United States to be thankful.

Pushing Ahead

Early in December, a power company asked permission from the Federal Power Commission to build a new $87,000,000 hydroelectric plant in Montana.

What gives this national significance is that it is another illustration of the fact that tax-paying, publicly-regulated private enterprise is capable of constructing any needed power installation, no matter how big and expensive.

All over the country, the utilities are pushing ahead with major construction and betterment programs—or are awaiting official permission, as in the case of huge projected developments on the Snake River in Idaho and the Niagara in New York.

We don't need tax-devouring, freedom-killing, socialized electricity, or any other brand of socialism.

Oil in the Atomic Age

The president of an oil company recently dealt with the probable impact of atomic power on the petroleum industry. At the end he summed up his findings in these words: "Barring a world cataclysm, world population in the next century is almost certain to increase by threefold and its power requirements at least tenfold. With this outlook, I, for one, welcome atomic energy with open arms. For in the long pull it will be, not a competitor, but a burden-sharer; and its ultimate availability should still the recurrent cry that we are running out of oil and that the Government should therefore take us over. Atomic energy today needs both industrial and governmental help. The oil industry has proven rather conclusively that it can do a highly efficient job as a private enterprise. The availability of atomic energy should help us keep it that way, and is therefore doubly welcome."

Two conclusions can be gained from this. One is that we will need to make full use of every resource, atomic or conventional. The other is that oil will continue to make outstanding contributions to our lives and welfare.

Senior "Partner"

If you have been in danger of succumbing to the idea that government should take over more and more activities, and that a "little socialism" may be a good thing, the following from an article by M. S. Ruker in the New York Journal American should prove of interest: "... the Federal Government is the partner of every successful concern, taking (in taxes) 52 per cent of the net profit of bigger companies and up to 91 per cent of the earnings of successful individuals."

"Thus, when the Federal Government ceases to compete directly with taxpaying companies and individuals, it ... is contributing to the well-being of a national economy, in which it has an enormous stake as tax-collector."

Any government policy which discourages legitimate private enterprise hurts us all. It destroys potential sources of taxation—which means that the rest of us must pay more taxes. It prevents employment. It lessens opportunity. And it undermines that spirit of initiative and enterprise which is the root of all progress.

The Low Down From Hickory Grove

If I was to chime in and say who it is that is benefited most via anti-trust lawsuits, it would be the lawyer gentry. It takes a flock of 'em to work up a good long-winded case like this one in Chicago that wound up in the ash can. The Govt. lawyers were trying to prove that ownership of stock in General Motors and U. S. Rubber by the duPont family was bad and a menace and various other obnoxious things. The Judge said it was not so.

Anybody who is thrifty and manages to buy a few shares of stock, should not be limited as to how thrifty he might choose to be. Nobody would get hurt if only one person owned all of U. S. Rubber. Competition by the other big tire outfits is plenty to keep any one company in its place. A flock of lawyers is expensive for the taxpayer—more of a menace than any rubber company. Tires were never better or more reasonable in price.

Since the Pilgrims came over in 1620 we have endorsed thrift. And furthermore, a thrifty household, with a nest egg down at the bank, is a major keystone of the nation. Discouraging thrift like in the Chicago attempt would have been a blot on the Pilgrims' escutcheon. Now if they will just bring gold coin back—I am still hopeful, maybe lukewarm, but hopeful—I long to hear that old golden clink.

Yours with the low down,

JO SERRA

Pepper Mill Helps Flavor of Condiment

The delicate flavor and aroma of freshly-ground "peppercorns" for seasoning meats, fish, poultry and other foods is now available to consumers at small cost.

Because the true flavor of pepper tends to diminish after it is ground, A & P stores has arranged to distribute through their supermarkets an imported pepper mill with a two ounce package of Ann Page dried, whole peppercorns. When ground immediately before use the full flavor and aroma is retained.

Peppercorns are the fruit of a perennial shrub native of India. The shrub is now cultivated on the Malay Peninsula, as well as in Sumatra, Java, Ceylon and several other countries. It was one of the first spices used by mankind and for hundreds of years in early history was an important article of commerce between India and Europe.

The pepper mills being distributed are attractively finished in natural wood and are imported from Italy.

For the first time in history, the grand champion carcass hog in the National Barrow show was a cross-breed. The November Successful Farming magazine reports that the pig was grown and shown by Harvey J. Holst of Minnesota. The winner was a cross between a Beltshire boar and a Berkshire Poland China.

Men will wrangle for religion; write for it, fight for it; die for it—anything but live for it.

WHY ACCIDENTS AROUND YOUR HOME?

Most accidents are caused by little mistakes we make. These often occur when we are in a hurry, are overtired or attempt to do a job we know, little about. For example, get help in lifting heavy furniture; when you are tired do only what is essential. Do not change an electric fuse until you know how to do it safely. By always working within your limitations and being careful, accidents can be avoided.

New Year's resolution that pays off in thrills...

"I'm going to drive that 1955 BUICK!"

WE'VE seen some high peaks of interest in our new cars over the years—but never anything like this. Since the day we unveiled these glamorous new Buicks, people have been coming in—not only to see and study and sit in these great cars—but, very definitely, to drive them.

They want, it seems, a firsthand taste of the thrills that Buick engineers have conjured up for this new year.

And who can blame them?

For the word's around that Buick has what no other car in the world has—a new kind of performance from a new kind of transmission.

It's called Variable Pitch Dynaflo Drive.* It uses the principle of the modern airplane's variable pitch propeller. And it does in oil what that aeronautical marvel does in air.

At one pitch of the blades inside the Dynaflo unit, you get more fuel efficiency in normal cruising and driving—which means better gas mileage, pure and simple.

But push the gas pedal beyond the full throttle position and you switch the pitch. Instantly, you get electrifying response—a sudden safety-surge of accelerating power to get you quickly out of a tight spot—and with the absolute smoothness that is constant in Dynaflo Drive.

Maybe you, too, have made a mental resolution to drive a '55 Buick—but why wait?

We're ready, willing and eager to let you try one—feel the spectacular new power that gives life to this bounteous beauty—and see for yourself that here is a performance thrill too exciting to miss. Drop in on us this week, won't you?

*Standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Lost Sale Led To Patent for Leakproof Pen

GARY, Ind.—Selling life insurance has always been a competitive business. Agents selling after the Civil War found it took enterprise and plenty of drive to succeed.

Lewis Edson Waterman in New York had the necessary qualifications. On making a sale he took no chances of letting anything go amiss at a critical moment. He carried a vial of ink and a steel pen for getting signatures.

One day, Waterman, meeting an extra-special prospect, prepared himself with a new-type fountain pen. The prospect was impressed, but as he took the pen and prepared to sign, ink streamed out of the point causing a disastrous blot. Waterman got the policy back unsigned, never had a chance to get that signature again.

This incident changed Waterman's life and led to a patent for a leak-proof fountain pen. He took the pen apart to see what had caused the mishap. He studied various pen patents. The solution, he decided, lay in finding a way to regulate and control the flow of ink. He worked on an automatic valve action that would admit air and relieve the vacuum in the barrel as the ink continued to flow. After many experiments, he achieved success by creating grooves to admit the air without letting the ink leak. He was granted a patent on the improvement on February 12, 1884.

It took time and money to get the pens into production and on the market. Waterman's first pens were sold with his personally signed guarantee. Today, three modern factories, employing hundreds of workers, are required to supply the demand for his pens.

Cancer in Young Spreads Faster

CHICAGO—Children do not have cancer as often as adults, but early diagnosis is even more important for them than for their elders.

This is true because the disease spreads and progresses more rapidly in children, and the symptoms are often confused, resembling many common childhood illnesses. Because of this, the disease may be unrecognized until it is too late.

Cancer, when it does occur in children, follows definite patterns. From birth to five years the predominating types are cancer of the kidney, eye and central nervous system, and leukemia; from five to 10 years, leukemia and central nervous system tumors and fewer eye cancers, and from 10 to 15 years, bone tumors. From 15 to 20 years, adult types become more common.

A mother may notice the signs of kidney cancer, or Wilms' tumor, when changing a diaper. The major symptom is abnormal fullness in the back on the side of the involved kidney. There is no pain or other symptoms.

Air Force Men Set Highest 'Chute Mark

WASHINGTON — What is the highest-altitude parachute jump on record?

It's 45,200 feet says the Air Force, which has announced that two of its officers set the record while testing new equipment.

The record-breaking jumps were made in the Gulf of Mexico area last summer from a B-47 jet bomber by Capt. Edward G. Sperry, Tacoma, Wash., and First Lt. Henry P. Neilsen, Staten Island, N. Y.

The previous record was 42,000 feet.

The temperature was 37 below zero centigrade (34.8 degrees Fahrenheit) when Sperry and Neilsen made their jumps at points more than eight miles up.

Teenagers Pull Fake 'Kidnap' on Busy Street

SAN FRANCISCO — They were just kidding but surprised onlookers let them get away with it as six teen-agers seeking excitement staged a series of fake kidnappings in the downtown Market Street area.

Theater crowds were shocked into immobility by the realism of the acts and did nothing as the boys dragged their "victim" into an automobile and sped away.

Police officers with drawn guns finally cornered the boys in a hamburger stand.

Five 13 and 18-year-old boys were turned over to the Youth Guidance Center.

Grandma to Quit
MILWAUKEE — An 82-year-old grandmother, probably the nation's oldest football casualty of 1954, got out of the hospital recently and declared her sports career was ended.

Mrs. Anna Kammers tried to punt her 14-year-old grandson's football last November. The ball was blocking the doorway of her home. In trying to kick it away, she fell and broke her thigh.

Motorola Corporation Employees Play Santa to Allendale Boys

Sumerian Schoolboy World's First Apple Polisher

WASHINGTON—The first "apple polisher" in recorded history was a Sumerian schoolboy who, some 2,000 years before the Christian era began, buttered up his teacher with a home-cooked meal.

Dr. Samuel Noah Kramer, curator of the clay writing tablet collection in the University of Pennsylvania Museum, unearthed the story as he pored over cuneiform symbols graven on tablets dug up in Iraq.

Before him, he realized, lay a schoolchild's diary. In it he had bewailed a day chiefly marked by the number of canings his teacher had given him. The discouraged lad asked his father to invite the headmaster home for a meal. The parent not only did so, but gave the teacher a new garment and a ring for good measure.

The plan worked perfectly. After dinner, the master told the anxious student, who probably still smarted from the canings: "You have carried out well the school's activities, you have become a man of learning."

The first apple polisher belonged to a people who may have been the first to make enduring written records. Oddly, the very first existence of the little kingdom of Sumer between the Tigris and Euphrates Rivers in Mesopotamia was not even suspected by modern scholars until less than a century ago.

Through Greek and Hebrew writings, archeologists knew of Assyria and Babylon and had located them geographically. It was during their digging for relics of these later civilizations that they first came upon clay tablets which, when deciphered, proved to be written in the Sumerian tongue.

Carp Has Intercom For Special Speeds

LOS ANGELES — When underwater dangers threaten, the carp has a special "intercom" pathway in his spinal cord which apparently enables him to make a quick getaway.

University of California zoologists say the nerve fibers in this pathway run from the brain to the muscles in the carp's tail. Electrical stimulation in the spinal cord produces a rapid tail flipping not associated with normal locomotion.

During a special study of the carp and the more primitive, eel-like lamprey, it was found that comparable nerve fibers in the carp conduct about ten times faster than in the lamprey. This is due to arrangement of insulation around the carp fibers which causes impulses to move rapidly in the spinal cord in a series of jumps. In the lamprey impulses move continuously up the naked fibers and hence more slowly.

This points up one trend in evolution of the central nervous system from primitive fish to man—increasing the speed of nerve conduction and thus making locomotion more rapid and efficient, according to zoologists.

Second-day turkey tastes even better, according to the food editors of Successful Farming. You can take advantage of your leftover roast turkey or chicken by planning a delicious main dish. Serve it with confidence, even if you have company coming for supper. No one will ever dream he's eating leftovers!

DRIVE CAREFULLY AT DUSK

Just before dark these days is a dangerous time to be on the road. Visibility is reduced and there are many pedestrians and cars on the streets. Many accidents happen at this time of day. Be particularly alert at the wheel in getting your car out of the parking lot and onto the street. Drive slower than you normally would during the hours of daylight. If it is not dark enough to use your full beam headlights, put on your parking lights to be sure other vehicle operators will notice you! Car coming down the road. As darkness settles in, switch to your full beam lights. Always remember to dim them for oncoming traffic or when following in back of another car.
